

Solensia™
(frunevetmab injection)

Has Your Cat Stopped Acting Like “Your Cat”?

If you’ve noticed changes in the following behaviors, it could be a sign of cat osteoarthritis (OA) pain—a condition that affects the joints.*

Jumping up

Jumping down

Climbing up stairs

Climbing down stairs

Chasing moving objects

Running

If you think your cat may be showing signs of OA pain, fill out the Cat OA Pain Checklist quiz and schedule a visit to share the results with us.

To make each visit as comfortable as possible for you and your cat, here are some tips and tricks.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION: For use in cats only. Women who are pregnant, trying to conceive or breastfeeding should take extreme care to avoid self-injection. Allergic reactions, including anaphylaxis, could potentially occur with self-injection. Solensia should not be used in breeding cats or in pregnant or lactating queens. Solensia should not be administered to cats with known allergy to frunevetmab. The most common adverse events reported in a clinical study were vomiting and injection site pain.
